Join the third consecutive edition of RubyConf Argentina

The largest event in the spanish speaking ruby community is coming back!

About the conference

RubyConf Argentina is a two-day single-track event focused on Ruby and modern web technologies related to the Ruby programming language.

This year's edition will take place on November 27th-28th in the city of Buenos Aires.

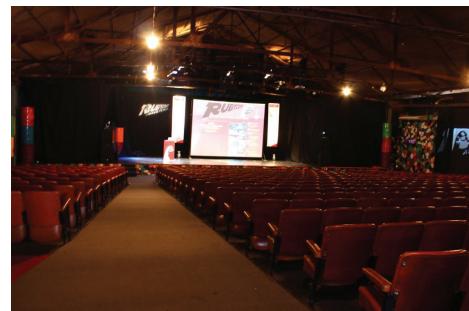

The venue

Because of its outstanding capacity, location and amenities, we've chosen, once again, Ciudad Cultural Konex for RubyConf Argentina 2014.

With its unique architecture, it was built in the 1920s and used as a factory and oil depot until 1992. Years later it was acquired in order to create Ciudad Cultural Konex and make it a benchmark for cultural activity in our country.

Inside, you can find all kinds of artistic expressions with the common goal of providing artistic and cultural enrichment of the community.

Speakers and Agenda

The agenda is designed to cover the interests of a wide audience of developers, from the new developer who is interested in learning Ruby, to the long-time Ruby expert.

The event's aim is to facilitate the integration, collaboration and sharing of experiences among Rubyists around the world.

Past speakers include: Aaron Patterson, Narihiro Nakamura, Norman Clarke, Luis Lavena, Scott Chacon, Konstantin Haase, Matt Aimonetti, Tom Preston-Werner, Blake Mizerany and Nicolas Sanguinetti.

Ruby Fun Day

Workshops, tutorials, agile games and product presentations.

A whole-day satellite event to hands-on, learn and have fun with Ruby and its amazing community!

Ruby Fun Day is free and exclusively for those who are registered for RubyConf Argentina 2014.
